Northville Township files lawsuit against landfill

Northville Township has filed a lawsuit against the Arbor Hills Landfill in an effort, officials said, to hold the facility accountable for past violations and prevent future harm to township residents.

The eight-count lawsuit which seeks to stop noxious odors, prevent intrusion of excess pollutants and protect Johnson Creek was filed Nov. 10.

After unsuccessfully working with lanfill owners GFL towards a resolution since their ownership began in October 2020, Northville Township Supervisor Mark J. Abbo has taken steps necessary to protect the health, safety, and welfare of township residents, according to a statement from the township.

The lawsuit against Arbor Hills includes counts for violating prior agreements with Northville Township by dumping wastewater into Johnson Creek and discharging wastewater with excess contaminants into the township sewer system. The lawsuit further requests the court issue an injunction against Arbor Hills Landfill for creating a public nuisance for Northville Township residents by releasing noxious odors and air contaminants.

"Over the past year, we have been diligently working to resolve the ongoing issues with the Arbor Hills Landfill. We have reached an impasse over the past several months and resolution through the courts appears our only means to resolve this matter," said Abbo. "We've decided it's time to take legal action against GFL, to protect the welfare of our citizens from any further harm."

Northville Township Trustee Chris Roosen agreed.

"We have been working with our state Legislature, neighborhood associations, and community leaders to stop the violations by GFL at the Arbor Hills Landfill and stop the nuisance it has created for township residents," he said.

Community leaders working in concert with the township include The Conservancy Initiative, a non-profit organization originally formed to oppose the proposed expansion of the Arbor Hills Landfill in 2015. The Conservancy Initiative members continue to monitor landfill activities and track odor

Local teacher wins state Lottery Excellence in Education award

Educator Chris Kozaczynski displays his Excellence in Education award presented to him last week by the Michigan State Lottery honoring his teaching efforts at Walker Winter Elementary School in Canton Township.

A Wayne Westland Community School District educator known for creating an engaging environment for students has been honored with an Excellence in Education award from the Michigan Lottery.

The award winner, Chris Kozaczynski, is a second grade gifted and talented teacher at Walker-Winter Elementary School which is part of the Wayne-Westland school district.

The Michigan Lottery established the Excellence in Education awards in 2014 to recognize outstanding public-school educators across the state during the school year.

Winners of the weekly award receive a plaque, a $1,500 cash prize, and a $500 grant to be used for their classroom, school, or school district. One of the weekly winners will be selected as the Educator of the Year and will receive a $10,000 cash prize.

Kozaczynski said a senior service project drew him to a career as an educator.

"I wasn't the person that knew from a very young age that I would grow up to be a teacher. A senior service project in high school allowed me to work with young children at a daycare for a parent/tot cooking class. I loved the experience and continued my work with children at summer camps and daycare while in college. I realized then that I really enjoyed working with children, was patient and understanding when explaining things to them, and most of all, found it to be incredibly rewarding."

Kozaczynski said integrating play with learning is one of his favorite activities to share with his students.

"There are so many games we play. The favorites change from year to year with each group of students, but I do notice an overall trend with my second graders: they want the teacher to play the games with them all the time. We love to play games at our math centers and beating the teacher at a strategy game guarantees bragging rights for at least the next week. I try my best, but they are just faster than I am.

"Playing online learning games together and allowing students to teach me how to get better so I don't keep losing to them is fun for both of us since they sincerely want me to improve.

Plymouth community mourns death of Fred Hill, 79

The Plymouth community is mourning the death of Frederick W. Hill, 79, who died at his home Nov. 15 after a battle with pancreatic cancer.

Mr. Hill was known throughout the area for his long-involvement and community activism. He was most widely known for his founding and direction of the Fred Hill Briefcase Drill Team which performed in the American Thanksgiving Day Parade, the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, the Fiesta Bowl Parade in Tempe Arizona and at the Indianapolis 500. Mr. Hill was a 50-year member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and the owner of Fred Hill Real Estate in Plymouth. He formerly owned a men's clothing store in Main Street in downtown Plymouth.

Mr. Hill also organized the Memorial Day parade through the city and was the founder of the tongue-in-cheek Men's Book Club in which no books were ever involved. Rather, the "members" gathered monthly for an evening speaker and a donation to a civic cause or charity. He was also a long-time member of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and served on the board of directors.

Mr. Hill was known for his sense of humor and wit and stories of his adventures are re-told throughout the community, always with a benefit for a civic organization or charity.

Services for Mr. Hill are planned for 11 a.m. Dec. 4 at the First United Methodist Church, 45201 North Territorial Road in Plymouth. Visitation is set for 5 until 9 p.m. Dec. 2 and 2 until 9 p.m. Dec. 3 at the Schrader Howell Funeral Home at 280 South Main St. in downtown Plymouth. There will also be a visitation from 10 until 11 a.m. prior to the funeral services Dec. 4.

Planning commissioners OK new development

Members of the Canton township Planning Commission have approved plans for a 62-acre, mixed use development on Michigan Avenue.

The new development, named Redwood Marketplace, includes plans for several hundred single-story apartment units and commercial buildings. It would be the first of this type in the southern end of the township. Commissioners approved the plan and recommended final approval for the planned development district during the Nov. 1 meeting.

The apartment units would be constructed first on 48-acres of the site and the commercial development would be constructed on about 14 acres and be developed at a later date. John Gaber, an attorney representing the commercial development, said it would be several years before any businesses would open at the site. He said the residential construction would eventually provide the customer base for the commercial buildings.

> "It's difficult to take a bare site like this and market the commercial first. This residential base provides a market for that.

"It's difficult to take a bare site like this and market the commercial first," he said. "This residential base provides a market for that," Gaber said.

The planned development district will now need approval from the township board of trustees and review and approval of a site plan by the planning commissioners will be required.

Teacher

They have the chance to be the expert and guide me."

The parent of a former student nominated Kozaczynski for the award. The nomination cited his creativity and the ways he engages his students.

"Mr. Kozaczynski uses technology and creativity to engage his students. Students contact all seven continents via Skype. He sends a student-made flag to Antarctica that scientists fly with penguins. Students even contacted a space station via Skype. He teaches the curriculum and way beyond. He hand-makes chocolate dinosaur fossils during their weeks on the prehistoric era. Students create an entire village to learn about taxes, community issues, pros and cons of industrial buildings, and what sort of shops/services are needed.

Every student has that one teacher they will remember for their whole life, for anyone in Westland's talented and gifted program, it is Mr. Chris."

Kozaczynski earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and a master's degree from Marygrove College. He has been an educator for 24 years, the last nine in his current position.

Outstanding public-school educators may be nominated for an Excellence in Education award at http://bit.ly/ExcellenceInEducation or through the websites of the lottery media partner stations.

Social worker program under way

The Canton Township Police Department embedded social worker pilot program, a partnership with Hegira Health, is already under way.

Social worker Renee Glass, LMSW, BCTP, is working with officers to assist citizens in need of counseling, referrals and resources related to a variety of issues such as criminal violence, geriatric issues, mental health concerns, addiction, homeless and indigent assistance. The program supplements the efforts of the 18 Canton Township officers who are trained in crisis response and intervention through the Detroit-Wayne Integrated Health Network, to assist with mental health response and to reduce the stigma of mental health issues and the need for further involvement with the criminal justice system.

ROMULUS

Councilwoman protests appointment procedure

Following the 20th official inauguration ceremony Nov. 8, members of the Romulus City Council met to establish the meeting calendar and make official appointments for the current terms of office. Voters chose to reelect all seven incumbents during balloting Nov. 2, and elected Robert McCraight as the new mayor. McCraight, the former director of public services and economic development for the city, was the choice of 2,483 or 59 percent of the voters.

Controversy erupted during the meeting regarding the naming of the council chairman pro tem, a position traditionally filled by the second-highest vote getter in the council race. This month, incumbent Virginia Williams with 2,344 votes, received the second highest vote total, with current council Chairman John Barden receiving the highest number of votes at 2,530.

After the adoption of the meeting calendar and Roberts Rules of Order along with multiple appointments to various city committees and commissions, the next item on the agenda was the naming of the chairman pro tem. Barden, as chairman of the council, said he was in agreement with the historic procedure of appointing the second-highest voter getter to the job. The chairman pro tem, according to the city charter, acts as the chairman of the council in the absence or disability of the chairperson and assumes those official duties.

> "There are wicked, evil, hateful things going on. It's not fair,. How dare this even be a vote when it never has been before?

"I'm in agreement with that," Barden said, "Let's continue doing what we did in the past. If we want to change that procedure, we can look at it in the future."

Councilwoman Tina Talley, who served as chairman pro tem during the last term, asked City Clerk Ellen Craig-Bragg to detail the duties of the chairman pro tem as dictated by the city charter and also asked if the position is usually by a vote of the council members or by appointment.

Williams responded that historically there had been no issue in the appointment of the chairman pro tem and that when the position was awarded to Talley in 2017, there was "no issue." She said that it was "wrong to even be discussing this."

"The people have spoken, why is this on the agenda to change," she asked. She then questioned the seating arrangement at the council table claiming that "to my knowledge every chairperson pro tem sits next to the chairperson but when I approached the chairman about the seating he said we will keep these seats." Williams went on to question the propriety of having the issue on the agenda and insisted that it was a personal attack on her.

"How much do I have to take?" she demanded and insisted that she had spoken with other members of the council who agreed with her opinion that she should be named to the position without a vote. "There are wicked, evil, hateful things going on. It's not fair," she said. "How dare this even be a vote when it never has been before?"

Barden responded that the seating at the council table was his choice and within his authority to which Williams responded that she had the right to make a motion to vote on the issue.

Councilman William Wadsworth, the longest-serving member of the council, interrupted the shouting match to explain that he sat in the same seat at the council table for five terms, serving terms both as chairman and as chairman pro tem.

"As the number two vote getter, I never left this seat," he said. "Since 1983, it has always been done this way."

Craig-Bragg, in response to Williams' assertions, said that the city charter dictates that the council members vote on the naming of the chairman pro tem.

Councilmembers Talley and Kathy Abdo cast no votes on naming Williams to the position which was approved on a 5-2 vote.

The issue then prompted comments from audience members who crowded the council chambers for the first meeting of the term. Sherry Hester told the council members, "We come here for city business, not to hear you bicker." She also told the council that the city needs businesses and stores.

Her comments were reiterated by long-time city resident Byron Butler who told the council that "the voters have spoken. You can't go against what the voters have said. We have bigger fish to fry," he said. He also noted the need for better schools in the city to attract potential residents and businesses. Resident Linda Michell noted that Williams was only about 100 votes behind Barden in the totals while Harold Cummings told the council that "It saddens me as a resident to see what's going on. To see the council so divided. We have a lot of residents being dumped on by your decisions." Cummings also criticized the current procedure of having the council vote on issues before the public comment portion of the agenda. "We need to be allowed to speak before you vote," he said.

Virginia Williams

Wadsworth again cautioned his colleagues that the "bickering and finger pointing has to stop." "Nobody does this (serves on city council) to get rich. We all have a vision for our city. Maybe it is a different vision from others here, but we all have to respect the others' vision," he said.

Councilwoman Eva Webb said the council members needed to communicate their concerns and questions more openly with their colleagues.

"We're here to take care of our residents," she said, and urged the council members to call one another to discuss issues. Webb also commented on the number of people in attendance at the meeting and urged them to continue to attend. .

In closing the meeting, Barden thanked the public for their comments, their patience and for adhering to the 3-minute rule in speaking to the councilmembers. "I want to thank Byron Butler. We need to take care of business," Barden said.

Newly-elected mayor promises to 'exceed expectations'

The 20th inauguration ceremony for newly-elected Romulus officials drew a large crowd of supporters and well wishers to city hall Nov. 8.

After opening remarks from several local dignitaries, 34th District Court Judge Lisa Martin administered the oath of office to city council members John Barden; Virginia Williams; Tina M. Talley; William J. Wadsworth; Celeste Roscoe; Kathy Abdo and Eva Webb. All are incumbents. Judge Tina Brooks-Green officiated at the swearing in of incumbent City Clerk Ellen Craig-Bragg who was unopposed in her bid for a fourth term in office, and incumbent city Treasurer Stacy Paige.

Newly-elected Mayor Robert McCraight was sworn into office by Brian Oakley, chief judge at the 34th District Court in Romulus.

Each of the newly-elected officials spoke to the large crowd, thanking their families and their supporters and campaign workers and giving credit to the voters who cast their ballots for them. Each of them also lauded outgoing Mayor LeRoy Burcroff for his 24 years of service to the community. Burcroff opted not to seek reelection this year.

> "This is not my vision, not the council's vision, it is your vision. Where do you want the city to go?

Wadsworth, the longest-serving member of the city council, who was first elected in 1983, said that as the campaign was over, "It is now time to do the people's work."

McCraight, after thanking his wife for her support, told the assembled crowd that the officials had not been chosen for personal agendas but had been chosen to find common ground and help work in the community to achieve the full potential of the city.

"The officials have been chosen to strive to better your community to work together to provide the best quality of life possible for residents," he said. This was McCraight's first bid for elected office after a 20-year career with the city. He was formerly the chief building officer and director of public services and economic development for the city. He also served as the administrative liaison to the planning commission, the zoning board of appeals, the Downtown Development Authority and the Tax Increment Financing Authority Director.

McCraight won the mayoral election with 2,483 votes or 59 percent of the votes cast. He defeated former Mayor Alan R. Lambert who received a total of 1,732 votes, or 41 percent of the total.

He told the crowd that the city was beginning a new vision process as the needs and wants of the city change. He said he and his administration would be looking for help and for volunteers to serve in the community.

"This is not my vision, not the council's vision. Where do you want the city to go. Romulus is the home of opportunity," he said, "but it must be the home of opportunity for everybody. We are a diverse community, we have always been, but we can become an example for the nation," he said.

Mayor Robert McCraight

McCraight closed his remarks with a pledge to operate in an open and transparent manner and concluded by telling the crowd, "I plan to exceed your expectations during the next four years."

Getting back to the moments we miss starts with getting informed.

INKSTER

Judge reinstates bond for state legislator

State Rep. Jewell Jones was expected to leave the Livingston County Jail Friday after posting reinstated bond and has until Dec. 10 to consider a plea deal offered by the prosecution.

Jones, who had been incarcerated for 60 days, was to be released on a $100,000 personal recognizance bond and on a second $100,000 or 10-percent bond with multiple conditions. Judge Michael Hatty reinstated Jones original bond based on his arrest on drunk driving and resisting arrest charges from an April 6 incident. He was ordered to jail on those charges after repeated bond violations including alcohol consumption, tampering with the alcohol monitor, misleading the court regarding his whereabouts and failure to pay the fee for the court-ordered monitor. The second bond was imposed in connection to charges filed after a handcuff key was discovered taped to the bottom of Jones' foot during jail intake processing in September.

> In addition to the bond reinstatement and reduction, Jones was offered a plea deal by Livingston County Chief Assistant Prosecutor Carolyn Henry.

As a condition of his bond, the Inkster Democrat must remain in the care of Church Elder Paul Turner, Jr. who operates CHOICE-Behavioral Health Management, an alcohol treatment program in Detroit. Jones must also wear a GPS and alcohol tether and adhere to a strict 9 p.m. curfew with his activities limited to attending Legislature sessions and attending legal counseling and medical treatment appointments. The judge also insisted that Jones, currently suspended from the Inkster Police Auxiliary, surrender all police equipment, including badges, identification, weapons, keys and gear to the police department or the court.

Hatty made it very clear that he would accept no breach of any of the bond conditions. "Mr. Jones, I don't want any excuses," he said.

In addition to the bond reinstatement and reduction, Jones was offered a plea deal by Livingston County Chief Assistant Prosecutor Carolyn Henry. In exchange for a guilty plea to misdemeanor charges, the county would dismiss or make other exceptions for the outstanding felony charges. If he accepts the prosecution offer, Jones would be required to plead guilty to two counts of resisting and obstructing police, one count of operating while intoxicated, one count of possession of a weapon while intoxicated, one count of reckless driving and one count of escape of lawful custody.

Jewell Jones

Jones' attorney, former Inkster Mayor Byron Nolen, said he would be discussing the offer with the lawmaker, "and see what he wants to do." Nolen said he planned to post both bonds last Friday following the court hearing.

Jones next court hearing is set for Dec. 10.

Inkster man charged in Hamtramck shooting deaths

RayQuan Young, 24, of Inkster, has been arrested and charged with six felony offenses in connection with the death of two people in Hamtramck.

According to police reports, Young was charged Nov. 13 in the deaths Khalileo Anderson and his girlfriend, De'Angelique Thomas. The case had been under investigation since Hamtramck police were called to Anderson's apartment in the 3500 block of Caniff Street in the city at about 2:45 p.m. Oct. 28. When officers arrived at the scene, they discovered the two victims dead from multiple gunshot wounds, according to police reports.

Following a two-week investigation, Young was identified as a suspect in the shootings which took place at approximately 9:03 p.m. Oct. 27. Investigators allege that Young robbed the victims and during the robbery, fatally shot the pair before fleeing the scene. Young was arrested by Hamtramck police Nov. 9. He was charged and arraigned on two counts of homicide, felony murder, two counts of armed robbery and four felony firearm violations in 31st District Court.

Bond was denied by the court and Young remains in custody at the Wayne County Jail.

His next court appearance is set for Nov. 23 before Judge Alexis Krot.

Motorists welcome reopening of Harvey Street

Plymouth motorists celebrated last week when the intersection of Harvey Street and Penniman opened to traffic.

The intersection officially opened last Friday after three months of construction during which new utilities were installed, including a new water main installed under the Tonquish Creek, new wider, ADA sidewalks constructed, additional lighting was connected, a new mid-block crossing installed connecting the Tonquish Creek Nature Trail to downtown, and the foundations for the new mast arm signals and pedestrian crossing signals were prepped for installation next spring.

> Pedestrians and motorists will still see crews finishing some brick work, as well as trees, topsoil, sod and other landscape work.

Officials said there will be some on-going restoration work taking place during the next few weeks.

Pedestrians and motorists will still see crews finishing some brick work, as well as trees, topsoil, sod and other landscape work. There is one small asphalt patch left to complete on Penniman, which will require a short-term detour. That will be announced, city officials said, when the construction schedule is set.

Caution is urged in the Harvey Street area while crews are working to put the finishing touches on the project.

"Thanks you for your support and enthusiasm during the past few months. We hope we delivered a timely, responsible project that will last for years to come," officials said in a prepared statement.

Questions regarding this or other road projects can be directed to the Plymouth Department of Municipal Services at (734) 453-7737 or dms@plymouth mi.gov.

Northville district receives top rating from auditors

Northville Public Schools continues to meet the highest standards for accuracy of financial statements, accountability for use of federal and state funds, and overall financial stability, according to the report presented by Plante & Moran auditors at the Oct. 26 board of education meeting.

The auditors awarded Northville Public Schools the highest possible audit rating in rendering an "unmodified" opinion for the district financial statements and federal awards, while noting no material weaknesses or deficiencies, and qualifying the district as a low-risk auditee.

The most recent S & P bond rating review of the district in May, 2020 cited Northville Public Schools' strong financial position, and held the District's AA-, long-term rating, despite the challenging economic environment shaped by the pandemic.

"Watch points" for the future were noted and discussed, including retirement funding, matching revenue to costs, short-term nature of some existing revenue sources, student enrollment trends, and a potential revenue cliff in the 2023-24 school year.

Members of the board of education take watch points seriously, and remain mindful of the need for sound fiscal practices and the need to budget for sustainability, according to a prepared statement from Superintendent of Northville Public Schools Mary Kay Gallagher.

The board of education members made note of several positive outcomes that are the result of sound fiscal management, utilization of grant funding, and effective use of resources, including bond and sinking fund dollars generously supported by the community: Northville Public Schools has not asked for a tax increase over existing rates since 2011 when voters approved the initial 1.000 mill Sinking Fund Levy - which is now at .9416 mills. The district general fund performance was approximately $2.5 million favorable to the final budget in 2020-21 and the district drew down fund balance over the last year by less than 1 percent, even as teacher and staff pay was expanded and class size lowered. That was made possible in large part by the $2.7 million of federal Corona-virus Relief Funds received by the district.

As a result of the sufficient fund balance, the district has not had to borrow money to fill the gap in State Aid payments between August and October since 2012, saving hundreds of thousands of dollars in interest costs over time, officials noted.

In January 2017, Standard & Poors Global Ratings raised their underlying rating two notches to 'AA-' from 'A' on the district unlimited-tax general obligations bonds.

Despite the challenges created during the COVID shut-down period in spring of 2020, ongoing supply chain issues, and the changing labor market, Phase 3 projects of the bond improvement program were completed this fall, including the launch of the redesigned Hillside Middle School, completion of Maker's Spaces across all six elementary schools, renovated Cooke Center program spaces, and reimagined media centers and flexible learning environments across every school, Gallagher said.

"Odor complaints from the landfill are constantly being reported to The Conservancy Initiative and have continued to rise," said Ralph Lassel, president of The Conservancy Initiative. "Within the past eight days alone, we have received over 40 odor complaints from Northville Township residents."

> Within the past eight days alone, we have received over 40 odor complaints from Northville Township residents.

Attorney General Dana Nessel filed a lawsuit against the Arbor Hills Landfill in late 2020 for failing to comply with state and federal environmental regulations. Northville Township has applauded the efforts of Nessel and the work by the Michigan Department of Environmental, Great Lakes, and Energy (EGLE). The lawsuit filed Northville Township is separate and independent from the state efforts and provides additional, complementary relief to the citizens of Northville Township.

The complaint filed includes claims against Arbor Hills Landfill for breach of contract, public nuisance, private nuisance, trespass, negligence and seeks injunctive relief.

"Arbor Hills has refused to negotiate a resolution outside of court that ensures the health and safety of township residents. The Township Board of Trustees and I are committed to holding GFL accountable for the problems they have created in the operation of the Arbor Hills Landfill," said Abbo.

"We are committed to standing up for a safe, clean environment and community for Township residents, and will not be stopped in pursuing that goal."

Rezoning of marijuana growing sites is proposed

Sumpter Township may soon restrict marijuana growers to industrial-zoned property, rather than allowing caregivers to utilize their primary residences to produce the plants.

Trustee Matt Oddy first brought the issue to the attention of the board of trustees during a regular meeting, explaining that there have been changes and challenges to the current state law and that this effort could be superceded by changes under discussion in the state Legislature. Nevertheless, Oddy said, he felt the township should impose restrictions moving the growing of the plants to an industrially zoned area.

> Young said this change would give the township, like other municipalities, more control over where marijuana is grown.

Oddy again presented the issue at the Nov. 4 meeting of the Sumpter Township Planning Commission, where he serves as the board liaison. The proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance would "establish, regulate, and specifically define the permitted locations for registered Primary CareGiver Operations being conducted under the Michigan Medical Marijuana Act of 2008 within Sumpter Township."

He said a portion of this ordinance was previously repealed by the board because there had been lawsuits challenging the regulation and the Michigan Township Association had recommended the repeal of that section of the ordinance. However, he told the commissioners, there have recently been positive court cases that encouraged reinstatement of the zoning ordinances which give local municipalities the authority to control where caregivers can grow marijuana. A public hearing on the change would be required, Oddy said, to have the restriction adopted. He said that he had looked at the ordinances of several other communities and each is putting the growing of marijuana in industrial-zones areas.

Township attorney Rob Young thanked Oddy for explaining the item and said the proposed change was referred to the planning commission by the township board. Young said this change would give the township, like other municipalities, more control over where marijuana is grown.

Young will prepare some new versions of the ordinance, Oddy said, and notices of a public hearing on the matter could be sent within 30 days. He told the commissioners they could discuss the changes and following public input, have the new requirements approved by the members of the board of trustees.

The changes affect Ordinance sections 4.15.2, 5.16.2, and 6.55. A public hearing is set for Dec. 9.

Trustees delay purchase of pump station air cleaning system

Members of the Sumpter Township Board of Trustees opted to table the purchase of a new air cleaning system for the Sumpter Road pump station until next spring.

Trustees agreed that the 14-16-week lead time necessary for the installation of the $85,100 BioAir system would be better authorized next spring. The machine would be installed in an effort to remediate the odor at the pump station, located at the corner of Willis and Sumpter roads.

Residents in the area have been complaining for months about the odors emitting from the facility, and a recent survey indicated that 26 or 27 of neighboring residents found the smell emanating from the station to be "intolerable."

Sumpter Township Department of Public Works John Danci told the council members during the meeting earlier this month that the situation was an "urgent matter" and that the air filtration and control device "needs to start operating."

Trustees discussed, at length, the cost of the installation of the BioAir system, including the cement pad necessary to properly operate the machinery.

The decision on the purchase was tabled and is expected to be revisited by trustees in the spring.

Wayne marks Veterans Day at city memorial

The Veterans Memorial next to Wayne City Hall was the site of a Veterans' Day ceremony last Thursday, Nov. 11.

Wayne Community Development Director Lori Gouin acted as the emcee of the event and the ceremony officially began with the pledge of allegiance let by Wayne Councilman Kevin Dowd, Wayne Councilwoman Kelly Skiff and Wayne Councilman Phil Wagner.

Pastor Seth McDonald of Hillcrest Bible Church led the opening prayer while Wayne Mayor John Rhaesa offered opening remarks. Wayne Fire Department Captain Dave Wylie and veterans Kathy Baker, Dan Valdez and Ed Queen along with Chris Miller placed commemorative wreaths next to the memorials.

Wylie, a veteran, delivered the keynote address to the large audience who turned out for the first-ever such ceremony at the Wayne memorial.

Wylie's parents were among those who attended the ceremony.

Also supporting the event were Michigan State Senator Dayna Polehanki: Wayne County Commissioner Al Haidous; 29th District Court Chief Judge Breeda O'Leary; Westland Councilman Peter Herzberg; Wayne City Clerk Tina Parnell; Wayne Fire Chief Mike Stradtner; Wayne Police Chief Ryan Strong; Wayne Building and Engineering Director Mike Buiten and members of the Wayne Veteran's Memorial Committee.

Congresswoman Rashida Tlaib and State Rep. Kevin Coleman also spoke during the event and Wayne Councilman Alfred Brock read a Veterans Day poem that he authored called Shout Out Freedom.

Pastor Bobby Kelly of CrossPointe Community Church offered the closing prayer and audience members were invited to enjoy coffee and hot chocolate donated by Hillcrest Bible Church.

The event was organized, officials said, by city hall staff members.

Westland Police Honor Guard fundraiser is set

Members of the Westland Police Honor Guard are selling Challenge Coins to fund their trip to Washington D.C. to represent the city during National Police Week. To help them achieve what they describe as a "significant goal," they are selling the commemorative coins online.

Many teams of highly dedicated law enforcement officers attend the national police week ceremonies to represent organizations from across the United States and Canada. The teams converge in Washington every year for National Police Week, where peace officers are honored for their dedicated service to the protection of local communities.

On May 15, known as National Peace Officers' Memorial Day, the nation honors those officers who have made the ultimate sacrifice.

"The City of Westland Police Department Honor Guard exists in honor and tribute to the dedicated men and women who selflessly serve as part of the public safety profession, and when called upon, will care for the families and lay to rest our brothers and sisters with the highest level of respect and honors befitting their sacrifice," according to a prepared statement from the group.

The goal of the fundraiser is to raise enough funds to get the Westland Police Honor Guard team to Washington D.C. for Police Week.

The team would represent Westland and the city residents "with the highest level of professionalism while performing some of the most honorable details in the country in remembrance of those public safety officers who selflessly died in the line of duty," according to the prepared release.

These details would include participation in a Wreath Laying Ceremony, standing watch for the fallen, and a candlelight vigil to honor the fallen.
